“Rich and Jody of A2D provide excellent PR publications that keep fans and sponsors up to date with my race team. They add the personal touch that most PR companies lack with cookie-cutter press releases.”

-- Kyle Reinhardt, 410 Sprint Car Driver

“Working with A2D this past season I learned that Rich and his team provided everything I was looking for to promote myself and my team in a professional manner. I wanted to set myself apart from the rest of my competitors and that’s exactly what Rich helped me do.”

– Kody Hartlaub, 410 Sprint Car Driver

“I never thought 5 years ago when I first met Rich that your relationship would grow to what it has turned into. Rich has done things for me that I never would have thought been possible. Since getting A2D involved with our team our fan base and out-reach has grown at a pace that on-track performance alone could not equal.”

TESTIMONIALS

RICH WATTS,

FOUNDER,
ADDICTED2DIRT PR
& MEDIA MGMT

I founded Addicted2DirtPR & Media Management (A2D PR) in 2020 after I spent a year helping a friend promote a charity fundraiser through his race team. That experience helped me realize I wanted to do more, and that there was a need for a more personalized flavor of public relations.

Dirt track racing has been a life-long passion for me. Today it is an expensive sport and teams rely heavily on marketing partnerships to be competitive.

WHY PUBLIC RELATIONS?

Teams that invest in public relations to promote themselves AND their partners properly, not only connect with fans, but they also have happy businesses who continue to provide support.

Connecting with fans and potential partners is critical to sustain success and growth. A2D PR is ready and able to support teams who recognize this need and want a personal touch.

GET YOUR STORY OUT THERE

NAME RECOGNITION

Simply getting your name out there through today's online mediums such as websites, social media, and video outlets, can put you ahead of the competition. Readers and viewers get to know your name and your story, which builds a sense of familiarity, interest and connection.

PERSONALIZATION

Making sure readers and viewers see your face and get to know you as a person, is also a critical element in establishing and strengthening that connection.

GROWTH

Drivers and teams who rely solely on race fans seeing their car on the track and an occasional mention by the track announcer, will not grow their fan base or attract marketing partners nearly as effectively or quickly.

FORMING PARTNERSHIPS

RELATIONSHIPS

A relationship with a marketing partner must be about an arrangement that benefits both the partner and your team. The key to establishing a relationship is demonstrating to the potential marketing partner that working with you and your team can benefit them, and that you will represent them with a professional image.

IMAGE

That image starts with an online presence through press releases, social media posts, video and other content that are professional in both presentation and content. Partners don't want to be associated with, or represented by, content with poor grammar, misspellings, or a negative message.

AUDIENCE

We can share statistics and other information with potential partners that will show the potential customers they can reach through dirt track racing. Today's audience is much larger than just the people in the seats at the track. Streaming services and social media have evolved the sport into a highly connected global community.
